

Carter sounds conservative chord

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter agrees with President Ford's refusal to allow Vietnam to join the United Nations and says the men appointed to the Supreme Court by Ford and Richard Nixon are doing a good job.

It apparently is part of an effort by the Carter campaign to put a more conservative foot forward in the second week of the candidate's travels in search of votes. But that hasn't slowed Carter's criticism of Ford's leadership.

The President defended his stay-at-home strategy today, saying that as long as the Democratic-controlled Congress is in session he has to "make sure it doesn't go off the deep end."

Ford said in an interview: "When we do have an opportunity following the time Congress adjourns, we certainly will be campaigning. With Congress in session, it is vitally important that someone be here to check on their activities."

The President spoke on NBC's "Today Show."

Carter began Monday in the South, then chased the sun across the country, ending his day in Arizona.

For Ford, the second week of the campaign began like the first week — with the President studiously remaining away from the campaign trail.

Although he was not seeing any potential voters, plenty of them were seeing him as he signed bills at ceremonies designed to put him before the television cameras and emphasizing his White House residency.

Ford, who has left the White House only once since the fall campaign season began on Labor Day, plans to leave Washington on Wednesday for a speech at his alma mater, the University of Michigan. He planned to meet with his speech writers today to polish the Michigan address.

In his interview today, Ford said he will use his Michigan speech to review his record, and he promised some surprises.

Questioned in the Oval Office by reporters in New York who used a long-distance television hookup, the President gave this as the thrust of his upcoming speech:

"While we've faced some tough problems in the last two years, we have recorded accomplishments. We have restored trust in the White House; we have turned the economy around; and we have achieved peace, and we have the capability and will to maintain it.

"We'll also talk about domestic problems, jobs, home ownership, better health, crime control, more recreation, better education. Then we'll point at some of the things we should do in foreign policy."

Ford said this will be the theme of his campaign as well once he hits the road after Congress ends its current session Oct. 2.

After the speech, Ford is to return to the White House and may not leave Washington again all month except for the first of his debates with Carter on Sept. 23 in Philadelphia.

Meanwhile Sens. Bob Dole, the Republican vice presidential candidate, and Walter Mondale, his Democratic counterpart, were crisscrossing the country seeking votes.

Carter, whose own style is to shake as many hands, kiss as many babies and personally touch as many voters as he can reach, groused about Ford's stay-at-home campaign last week, accusing him of hiding in the White House.

But Monday, Carter had kind words for the Supreme Court of Warren Burger, appointed by Nixon, and he said he would have vetoed Vietnam's membership in the U.N., just as Ford did earlier Monday.

"I believe the Burger court is moving back in the proper direction," Carter said in a speech to county officials in Oklahoma. "We went too far and it got so that sincere, honest, dedicated competent law enforcement officers found it almost impossible to comply with all the technicalities that might be raised."

Earlier in the day, Ford had given instructions to William Scranton, U.S. ambassador to the U.N., to veto for the second straight year the Vietnamese application to join the organization. The veto in the Security Council was linked to Hanoi's failure to account for Americans still listed as missing in Vietnam.

Carter, in Phoenix, Ariz., met with about 25 persons whose relatives still are listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia, promising "an all-out effort" to determine the fate of those still missing.

Carter said he also would not move to establish normal relations with Hanoi "until I was convinced personally that the Vietnamese government had done everything humanly possible to provide a complete accounting of our men who are listed as missing in action."

Citizens look at city plan

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The first of three public hearings billed as citizen input sessions into Sedalia's 25-year city plan ended as more of a question and answer period between the Planning and Zoning Commission and an audience of about 50 persons Monday night. More hearings will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight and Wednesday at the Municipal Building.

Suggestions and reactions from the public are being sought on the general plan, authored by the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission. Under the current proposal the city will attack four main priorities: redevelopment or industrialization of the northside of town; redevelopment of the 16th street area within three blocks on either side; redevelopment of the downtown business district and incorporation of schools within city parks.

A large portion of the plan's success lies with implementation of a "Major Street Plan."

The shape of things to come

Other meetings are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday nights. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Widening or repaving

Under the major street proposal, certain streets would be improved by widening or repaving to allow a better traffic flow into the downtown area and through the community. Broadway, Limit and Main Streets would all be part of the main system of streets. In addition, Third and Gould Streets would be used in the same manner as Main Street as an artery, linking with Broadway at the city's east side. Other streets to be improved include 16th Street, Ingram and New York Avenues. Thompson Blvd. would take on a new significance.

The plan calls for Thompson to serve as "an industrial loop," traveling north to Main and south to Clarendon Road and eventually linking with Highway 65.

Much of Monday night's discussion centered on the northside of town. Ken Velharticky, planner in charge with the regional planning commission, said the area's streets were constructed on a "gridiron system," with streets intersecting every 300 feet. One way to reduce the number of streets and improve the area would be to eliminate every other road, he said. Thus, stated Velharticky, more land would be available for housing and taxation. Another plus to this approach, he said, was the reduction in street maintenance.

Question of money

Fourth Ward Councilman David Curry asked zoning commission chairman George Berenyi how the redevelopment and rehabilitation plans would be financed.

"This is beyond our charter," Berenyi said, "we have not concerned ourselves with funding." He went on to explain that the plan was only a guideline, but that the commission had worked within reasonable financial limitations.

Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin noted that many federal programs call for a plan before funding is possible.

"If we don't have a plan," said Franklin, "we don't get funding... and if we don't get the money, it's going to go someplace else."

Others would benefit

Later in the audience-commission exchange commission member Tom McCully said the plan would enable members of the Board of Education and Park Board, among other city organizations, to look at the city plan to make their building plans in accord with the planned growth of the community.

UAW strike imminent

DETROIT (AP) — A nationwide strike by 170,000 Ford Motor Co. workers appeared certain for midnight today after United Auto Workers bargainers, rejecting the company's latest offer, left the negotiating room with no plans to return.

President Ford said in Washington today a strike would hurt the nation's economy and he expressed hope a settlement still is possible.

"A strike could have, would have, some unfavorable aspects as far as the economy is concerned," Ford said in an interview on NBC-TV's "Today Show."

A Ford spokesman said today negotiators for both sides were on call but no meetings were scheduled. The spokesman said there were no reports of substantial absenteeism this morning when the first shift checked in at Ford plants.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said Monday he feared it would be "absolutely impossible" to arrive at an agreement before the 11:59 p.m. EDT deadline.

He said there was only a "one-in-a-hundred" chance of avoiding the first full-scale walkout against Ford since 1967.

Even Ford officials conceded for the first time that they no longer were hopeful of avoiding a strike over a new three-year contract. "I'm not particularly optimistic," the company's top bargainer, Vice President Sidney F.

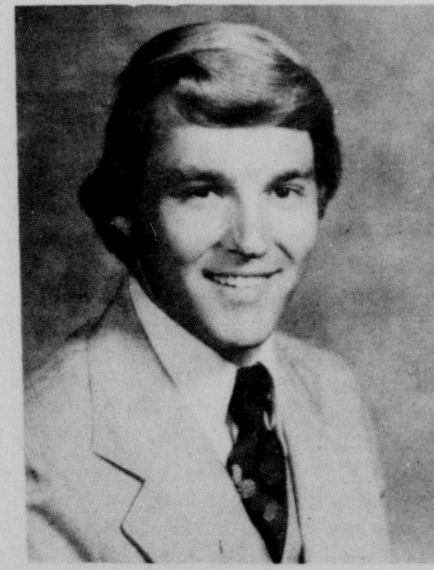

McKenna, said in announcing details of the firm's latest offer.

A strike would force shutdown of 102 facilities in 22 states — from Massachusetts to California — and paralyze the nation's No. 2 auto maker.

If the UAW strikes and the walkout is a prolonged one, up to 170,000 auto supply employees could face layoffs.

In addition, a spokesman for Ford-Canada said that even though both sides agreed to extend the current contract for Ford workers in Canada, a strike in the United States would lead to the layoffs of 14,000 employees within a week due to parts shortages.

Democrats select Gary Dey

Gary Dey

Gary Dey, the 23-year-old former interim police chief of Sedalia, was nominated by acclamation Monday night, as the Democratic candidate for the First Ward council seat vacated Aug. 16 by Mayor Allen Hawkins.

Dey was the only person nominated by First Ward Democrats in their brief meeting, held at Mark Twain School. Although First Ward Republicans have not yet selected their nominee, Dey will most likely face John Kehde in the Nov. 2 election.

Hawkins gave up his seat after being elected mayor Aug. 3. He replaced former Mayor Jerry Jones, who announced his resignation last April to take a job in Columbia.

Dey, 409 West Fourth, is employed as sales manager for David Malm Motors, Ltd. Except while attending Central Missouri State University in War-rensburg, Dey is a life-long resident of Sedalia.

Dey pledged to First Ward Democrats Monday night that problems with the city's youth, the city budget and senior citizens would command his greatest attention if elected First Ward councilman. Although he would probably be the youngest councilman ever to assume office, he said his past experience in city government will help him tackle the city's problems.

Since being graduated from CMSU in February, 1975, with a B.S. degree in criminal justice administration, Dey has held a number of jobs. He served in an internship program during the summer of 1974 as a deputy for the Pettis County sheriff's department. He was appointed administrator of the city's federally-

Carter thanks Phelps for non-endorsement

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter has thanked Missouri's Republican lieutenant governor for an endorsement that was never made.

Lt. Gov. William Phelps, the first Republican to hold the office in this state in 40 years, received a letter mailed from Carter's Atlanta campaign office September 10.

"I deeply appreciate your fine endorsement and your pledge of support, and I am very sorry that the pressures of the campaign kept me from writing to thank you earlier," said the letter, which had the signature "Jimmy" over the name of Jimmy Carter.

"Your friendship is very valuable to me. It is good to know that I will have your help in the months ahead, and I look forward to working with you toward our mutual goals," it added.

The letter was dated Aug. 28, and appeared on stationery headed with pictures of Carter and his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota. The letter head says, "Jimmy Carter, Walter Mondale, Leaders, for a change."

"If your letter to me mailed Sept. 10, 1976 thanking me for an endorsement that I did not make is an example of how you are out of touch with Missouri, voters should not send you to the White House for fear of similar bungling," Phelps replied in a letter to Carter.

"We strongly endorse President Ford because he has reduced our inflation by his courageous vetoes, has prevented American young people from being engaged in war and has restored trust to our political system," Phelps went on. "In concupision, let me also add my strong feelings against any federal subsidies to peanut farmers."

Kissinger embarks on African mission

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger left for Tanzania today on the first stage of a search for peace in southern Africa.

While he was still airborne, the Tanzanian government newspaper said Kissinger's new diplomatic shuttle may be a "worthless effort" and complained that the United States is more interested in containing Soviet influence in southern Africa than achieving black majority rule.

The Tanzanian Daily News said in a front-page editorial, however, that Kissinger was welcome "to see for himself the victories and revolutionary conquests of the people of Africa. He can go on to Pretoria and Salisbury and tell the old rascals there that their days are numbered."

This was a reference to the white rulers of South Africa and Rhodesia.

Kissinger left Zurich after a 12-hour rest stop following his flight from Washington. He made no public statements while in the Swiss city.

A senior American official aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary hopes to convince three key African leaders to agree on the form, forum and agenda for black-white negotiations.

The three men are Presidents Julius Nyerere of Tanzania and Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

Kissinger wants to set up negotiations for the transfer of power from the white minority to the black majority in Rhodesia and for arrangements to free South-West Africa, called Namibia by the United Nations, from South African rule.

He hopes Nyerere and Kaunda will bring the black nationalist leaders to the tables and that Vorster will do likewise with Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia.

The South African leader gave a strong indication Monday that he would not pressure Smith, saying in a speech: "Rhodesians are proud people. They determine their own policies and make their own decisions.... We give advice, and we point out possible alternatives, but we do not prescribe."

But the senior American official said South Africa has already started putting a squeeze on Smith. He said Vorster has withdrawn the police and helicopter pilots who were helping the Rhodesian government's forces against the guerrillas and has started to congest Rhodesia's only outlet to the sea, by way of South Africa's railroad system.

Last debates scheduled for Oct. 6 and 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — The second and third debates between President Ford and Democrat Jimmy Carter will be Oct. 6 and 22 with the single debate between the vice presidential candidates sandwiched in between, the sponsoring League of Women Voters announced today.

The league said the debate between Republican vice presidential candidate Bob Dole and Democrat Walter Mondale has been tentatively set for the week of Oct. 11, but that no date has been agreed upon.

The locations and other details of the debates are still being worked out, the league said.

The first Ford-Carter confrontation will take place in Philadelphia on Sept. 23, a Thursday.

The length of the debates has not been settled, but all will begin at 9:30 p.m. EDT, regardless of length.

The subject of the first debate in Philadelphia's historic Walnut Street Theater will be economics and domestic policy. One of the others is expected to deal with foreign policy and national defense, with the third open to a variety of issues.

One escapee surrenders in Warsaw

WARSAW — One of two youths who escaped from the Benton County jail here Friday night was arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning on charges of escaping jail.

Eldon E. Brown, 18, Cross Timbers, turned himself in at the jail about 6:30 p.m. Monday after surrendering to his attorney in Kansas City earlier in the day, according to Chief Deputy Sheriff Bob Crenshaw.

The other youth, Jackie Robinson, 17, Edwards, is still being sought by authorities.

The two were discovered missing from the jail shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday. They reportedly pried loose ceiling material in their cell and then pried bricks loose in an outside wall to make their escape.

A spokesman at the jail said Monday night that Brown returned to the jail on the advice of his attorney. Brown gave no information concerning the whereabouts of Robinson, the spokesman said.

Felony charges of escaping jail have been filed against Robinson also, Crenshaw said. Brown's preliminary hearing on the jail escape charge was set for Oct. 4. He remains in the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on that charge.

Brown and Robinson were being held in the Benton County jail in lieu of $3,500 bond each on felony charges of cattle theft at the time of their escape. Both are also wanted in Camden County, Crenshaw said, on similar charges.

Small pebble stills Viking scooping claw

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 2 robot stands motionless on the red surface of Mars, its quest for life apparently stilled by one small pebble stuck in its scooping claw.

The gray, squat lander, unable to proceed with its most crucial experiment, awaited help from earthbound repairmen 230 million miles away.

After a successful scoop for soil and delivery to three biology experiments, the arm stopped dead in its tracks — one day before it was to get another clump of dirt Monday bound for the organic chemistry probe, the key in the search for life.

While dragging across the rocky surface, the sampler arm apparently picked up a Martian pebble which got stuck in the sampler head's backhoe, project manager James Martin said. The hoe is a device on the swiveling head used to dig trenches in the surface.

"We don't know exactly what the problem is," Martin said after announcing that the lander had registered a "no-go" signal, a built-in command that halts the arm when something out of the ordinary occurs.

Martin said a pebble caught in the backhoe would cause the device to stick out in an awkward position and get hung up on the lander's hardware as the sampler arm made its soil-delivery rounds.

Worse, the arm stopped in the one position beyond the sight of the lander's twin cameras. So scientists said they would first have to order the arm to extend several inches, take a picture of the ailing arm, and check to see if their guess about the pebble is right.

If so, the arm would be ordered back to the surface for another dig, and it was hoped the troublesome pebble would fall free.

During Viking 1's early digging expeditions on the Chryse plain, a malfunction developed with its sampler arm. Scientists fixed that malady, a stuck metal pin, by ordering the arm to the surface again, after which the sampler performed properly.

Housing authority approves per cent method of payment

City public housing tenants will be paying at least 20 per cent of their annual net incomes on rent and utilities next year if a motion passed by the Sedalia Housing Authority Monday night is approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

A HUD directive issued last March states that public housing authorities, in order to be eligible for federal subsidies, must charge "not less than 20 per cent and not more than 25 per cent" of a tenant's annual net income for rent and utilities.

The Rev. Marvin Albright, director of the authority, said public housing tenants in Sedalia currently pay an average of approximately 17.2 per cent of their annual net incomes on rent and utilities.

Current figures show that Sedalia tenants earn a combined total of $563,786 annually, and pay $96,837 for rent and utilities. Given that income figure, tenants would be required to pay $112,757, based on the minimum 20 per cent ordered by HUD. That represents an additional $15,920 in rent and utility payments over the year.

Mr. Albright pointed out that a utility allowance would be deducted from the monthly rent payments because Sedalia tenants pay their own utilities.

The proposed rent hike was incorporated into the authority's budget for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1, which was drafted and approved Monday night. The budget includes $25,520 in subsidies from HUD, and will be submitted to that agency for approval.

Mr. Albright said the proposed rent hike would probably go into effect Jan. 1, pending the outcome of future public hearings on the issue and its approval by HUD.

The increased rates "Will not hurt low-income families,"

Mr. Albright said, because with utility adjustments and various standard deductions, those families would only pay a small amount of rent.

In light of the HUD directive, the authority allotted $81,600 in its 1977 budget for rent income, compared to $61,600 in its 1976 budget. Although the new ceiling on rent rates is 25 per cent of the tenant's annual net income, the minimum 20 per cent factor was used in preparing the budget.

The authority allocated $8,000 in the budget to hire a security guard for the city's public housing units. Mr. Albright emphasized that plans to hire the guard could not be completed until the budget is approved.

The authority has never had a security guard, Mr. Albright noted, but decided to hire one to "help curb vandalism." There is not a high rate of such reports, he said, rather the authority felt it would be wise to protect the investments of residents and taxpayers alike.

Total expenses in the 1977 budget are $339,553, compared to $332,250 last year. Those projections give the authority an income surplus of $7,907, an increase of $47 from last year.

In other business, the authority heard a complaint from representatives of the Buckner Head Start Program concerning vandalism at the Head Start center, 357 Buckner Court.

The representatives said the destruction of playground equipment, a storage shed and other Head Start property is "becoming a continuing problem at the center."

The authority said it would discuss possible solutions to the vandalism problem and that damages to the center would be repaired.

The authority also approved the hiring of an additional maintenance man at a salary of $600 per month.

Big-time operation

Columbia, Sedalia respond

Fire battled in Otterville

OTTERVILLE — As fire chiefs from four departments and several assistant and battalion chiefs stood by, firemen from Otterville and Smithton poured water on a huge pile of wood chips here Monday night.

A bulldozer was used to spread the pile out under the glare of a special light truck brought here from Columbia.

The fire originally started last Thursday here at the Gant Lumber Mill where spontaneous combustion ignited the wood chips and sawdust. Otterville firemen soaked the pile then. However, it continued to smoulder until it burst into flames again Monday afternoon.

The state fair marshal's office was asked for advice in helping to extinguish the blaze and it suggested that Otterville request the aid of the Columbia fire department.

Johnson hearing set for Sept. 29

Carl Eugene Johnson, 16, 516 East 12th, who was charged Monday with four counts of tampering with a motor vehicle, was arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning on that charge.

Johnson, a juvenile, was certified Sept. 2 by Circuit Judge Frank Meyer to stand trial on the charges. Johnson is charged with the theft of four cars between May 23 and July 30.

His preliminary hearing is scheduled for Sept. 29. He remains in the county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond.

Republicans to tab council candidate

First Ward Republicans will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Pettis County Courthouse Assembly Room to select a nominee to succeed Mayor Allen Hawkins as First Ward councilman.

The GOP candidate will face Democratic challenger Gary Dey, who was selected Monday night by the Democrats.

Columbia Fire Chief Dean Holland, Boone County Assistant Chief Pat Barnes and two Columbia battalion chiefs arrived in Otterville early Monday evening with a supply of "wetter water" to help with the fight. Wetter water is a chemical added to water that makes regular water more slippery so it doesn't cake the sawdust together.

At Holland's request, Sedalia Fire Chief Willis Jabas and Assistant Chief Kenneth Sublett brought about 1,200 feet of fire hose to Otterville to help supply water. Jabas first contacted Mayor Allen Hawkins for permission to loan the hose.

Over 2,000 feet of hose was stretched down old Highway 50 to a pond from which water was pumped to the fire scene.

As night fell, Holland sent back to Columbia for the truck with large spotlights.

Smithton and Otterville firemen worked until almost 2 a.m. Tuesday pouring water on the smouldering heap. Although most of the fire was extinguished, smoke was still coming from the pile Tuesday morning.

Industrial park is taking shape, Hamm tells board

"We've got an industrial park that's finally taking shape," Economic Development Director James Hamm told members of the Economic Development Board Monday afternoon in a brief meeting.

In outlining progress on the city's industrial park since he took over in mid-July from his predecessor, John Hequembourg, Hamm said the park's first tenant, the Centralia Container Corp., will be located in its 50,000-square-foot building by the first part of October, with manufacturing to begin about a month later.

About 20 to 25 persons will be hired by CCC, Hamm said, with all but about three to be hired locally. That number will increase to about 40 within a year, Hamm said. The jobs will be of a "semi-skilled" nature.

The board also considered in executive session two prospective companies for the industrial park. The names of the firms were not announced.

The industrial park, located on a 104-acre site at the northwest corner of Grand and Highway 65, is being developed through the city and the Sedalia Area Development Corporation.

Hamm said progress on the park was briefly halted while his office waited for state approval of a proposed sewer line in the park. That approval was recently granted, he said, and bids for the sewer line's construction will be opened at the Oct. 4 City Council meeting.

funded Community Development Block Grant program by Jones in September, 1975.

He was then named interim police chief by Jones last Dec. 19 after the mayor fired Police Chief William Miller. Dey resigned 33 days later, saying he had been offered a job in Kansas City with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, an offer he later turned down. He subsequently resumed his position as head of the block grant program until resigning April 19 to take the car dealership position.

CB, tape player reported stolen

The second citizens band radio stolen in as many days in Sedalia was reported to police Monday night.

Jerry Comstock, 291 Heritage Village, told police that his CB was taken from his car while it was parked at Red Apple Lanes, 3200 West Broadway, between 6:30 and 11:30 p.m. Monday. A wing window was pryed open to gain entry to the vehicle. The radio was valued at $150.

In other police news, Kenneth H. Dick, 1617 West 18th, reported the theft of a $120 tape player from his car parked in the 900 block of South Ohio from 12:30 to 3 p.m. Monday. Dick also reported that 21 tapes, valued at $147, were taken from his car last Wednesday, while parked at his home.

Larry Castiglia, Route 3, reported to police the theft of a stereo tape player valued at $250 and one eight-track tape from his car while it was parked at 1214 South Massachusetts between midnight Saturday and 11 a.m. Monday.

Police reports indicated that there were no signs of forced entry, but that the driver's door was not completely closed.

Bill Beach, 620 Crestwood Drive, reported the theft of a floor jack and a 12-volt battery valued together at $241 between 8:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 a.m. Monday. The items, owned by his brother, Bob Beach, 2501 Albert Lee, were taken from a truck parked at the Albert Lee address. Entry may have been gained by prying open the right wing window of the truck, police reported.

Nine tires were reported stolen from the Howard Construction Co., 1509 North Ohio, sometime within the past two weeks. Jim Harris, 3300 South Kentucky, an employee of the company, told police a loss estimate could not be calculated until an inventory was taken.

☆ Plan

The commission was asked how the plan, if approved by the City Council, would be enacted and enforced.

Berenyi quipped, "I'd like to say under pain of mortal sin, but we know that is not going to happen. I hope it would be done simply because we (Sedalians) would feel this is what we should do, because it's right." He added that no authority exists to enforce the plan.

Asked if the commission planned to establish deadlines for completion of its priorities or parts of the plan, Berenyi said, "I don't think that is a goal of this commission. However, I would hope some body of the city administration could evolve this kind of detail."

Though much time was given to the northside proposal, no blacks, who comprise most of the population in this area, were present.

Berenyi said "We've certainly made every effort to reach them (blacks)." He added that "special invitations" had been made to some groups in the community.

"We haven't gone door-to-door," Berenyi said, "however we will consider doing so when we get into specific areas."

Franklin added that two members of an advisory commission appointed to study city planning are black.

Throughout the session, Berenyi repeated the need for citizen participation and suggestions.

He said the reason a city plan had not been adopted in the past "... was because it lacked what we hope to do with this one, include citizen involvement."

Polly's pointers

Many uses for vinegar

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Inexpensive plain vinegar can be effective in solving many everyday problems in the home. I have used it and found it very good for the following things. Soak garments having a perspiration odor in warm vinegar. Lightly rub discoloration left by a slight scorching with vinegar. A teaspoon of vinegar in oil used for frying prevents the food from absorbing so much oil. Rub vinegar on the hands to remove onion or fish odors as well as fruit stains. When you buy a new fry pan, boil a little vinegar in it prior to use and this will prevent sticking. — MILDRED.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Do you have a list of non-cooking uses for vinegar? There must be lots of uses for it. I would appreciate knowing what some of them are.

My Pet Peeve is with mechanics who come to the house to make repairs and then invariably have to go back to the shop for one thing or another. Remember they are being paid by the hour and the shop never seems to be just around the corner. — I.M.

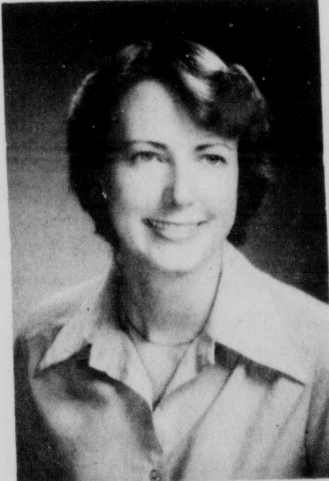

DEAR I.M. — Indeed there are many household uses for vinegar. Among my favorites are its use for cleaning a steam iron; loosening many types of glue; washing windows; for dampening a pressing cloth to be used on the crease left when a hem has been let down; and put in bowls around the house to absorb odors. Also, white vinegar in warm water will often remove animal stains from carpet. Leave on about twenty minutes and then wash out. Do test first to see how it affects the color. The above letter from Mildred gives more uses for vinegar. — POLLY.

RC to sponsor 'stork' class

Registration is now being taken for the third session of the expectant parent classes held at the Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center, 600 East 14th.

The classes will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday for six weeks beginning Oct. 16.

The main emphasis of the course is on exercises and relaxation and breathing techniques. Other subjects include nutrition, changes of pregnancy, breast feeding, physiology of labor and delivery, and baby care.

Instructors will be Maureen Lane, R.N.; Sue Felton, R.N.; B.S.N.; Beverly Wilkerson, R.N.; B.S.N.; and Sheila Marsh, teachers aide.

Husbands are urged to attend the classes with their wives. A small fee will be charged.

Registration forms are available at local physicians offices. For more information call 826-5248, 826-7608, or 827-2674.

Practical but chic sweater dress does double duty

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — You can't say Olga isn't practical. This is how the California intimate apparel designer thought up her Cozy-Top nightgown a while back.

"Women like to read in bed," she explained over the phone, "and most of the time, they seem to be cold around the shoulders."

But they're not cold where they're covered by the blanket. So Olga, whose last name is Erteszek, created a nightgown made of brushed nylon on top and tricot on the bottom. "The tricot was slick and smooth and didn't twist around the body."

Warmth on top, comfort below. A simple and effective notion which women took to gratefully, holding a copy of "The Ghoul from Bensonhurst" up to the reading light.

Now, Olga has tackled the what-can-I-slip-into-to-look-presentable-to-the-pie-eyed-Osborns-who've-dropped-in-and-don't-they-know-what-time-it-is-question.

"We don't have a definite name for it yet," she said. It's not a house robe, but it can be worn as one; it's not a hostess gown, but it serves as that; it looks like two-pieces, a sweater and skirt, but it's actually one-piece and what it is is Olga's concept of sweater dressing.

It's flattering and warm, she says, "and because the bottom is rigid, it doesn't stretch out of shape, so it can also be worn outside."

The sweater top is 100 percent wool, the skirt a combination of polyester, wool and acrylic and the whole thing is machine washable.

"They'll retail for $60 or $65, depending on the style, and they'll be in the stores in September."

The three styles include a turtle-neck sweater with belted skirt in sage or cinnamon, a cardigan top with buttoned-down skirt in sand or sea colors and the V-neck, surplice sweater paired with a side-buttoned skirt in blueberry or mulberry.

So when the Osborns remark, out of their martini haze, "We didn't realize it was so late; you didn't have to dress up for us," you can smile and think, "You should have and I haven't."

Cozy

Revealing V-neck surplice sweater tops a side-buttoned skirt, a far cry from the old house robe. (NEA)

Of all the major methods of freight transportation today, railroads are simply the most compatible with our environment. Air pollution emissions from rails are only about one fourth what they are from other modes. Rails, too, make the most efficient use of our land...

a double-track railroad can handle as much freight as a 20-lane highway. Noise levels from trains amount to only a fraction of what we

Referendum sought on Meramec Dam

Voters in Eastern Missouri would have an opportunity to express their views on the controversial Meramec Dam project if Gov. Christopher Bond can succeed in getting the legislature to set an advisory referendum.

Although a proponent of the $115 million dam project, Bond said the state would abide by the wishes of the people in the area. If the governor should come out in opposition to the dam, it is likely that the federal government would drop the idea.

The vote would be held in St. Louis city and county and 12 other surrounding counties that would be most affected by the Meramec Dam. Bond said Sunday that he will ask the General Assembly when it reconvenes in January to set a date for the referendum.

Bond's pro-referendum stance is not without its political side. His Democratic opponent, Joe Teasdale, has come out against the dam, and by favoring a vote on the question Bond has taken some of the heat off his back that has been applied by opponents of the dam.

Still, the idea is a good one.

The dream world of desegregation

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The recent report of the Civil Rights Commission on school desegregation is a dreamworld document if ever one came along. It is the work of 16 staff members whose collective naivete is positively awesome; the authors doubtless rank among the dearest people ever born, but they are spiritually kin to those famous three monkeys who could see no evil, hear no evil, or speak no evil.

Any knowledgeable observer who has lived with what Chief Justice Burger once described as the flinty, intractable realities of day-to-day desegregation will put the report aside with a sense of mystification. It is as if the authors were speaking a foreign language or describing other schools in other countries.

Here and there, to be sure, the authors bravely acknowledge that desegregation of the public schools has produced a little friction, a little resistance, some misguided opposition. A few unenlightened persons remain unconvinced that remedial measures are good things. Perfect acceptance has not quite been achieved.

But the overall impression of this 315-page report is that desegregation is absolutely ducky. Deep down in their hearts, the people love it. "There is one conclusion that stand out above all others: desegregation works." The general opposition that once prevailed has yielded to "widespread support." Desegregation has had such universally good effects on education that the changes "benefit everyone." And so on.

That impression, alas, is malarkey. Yes, of course, in many communities in which minority children are a relatively small fraction of the school population, measures to increase the degree of racial integration have been well accepted. There is nothing novel, or interesting, or newsworthy in that proposition. But the controversy over "desegregation" is something else entirely.

After all, who should be in a better position to determine the future of the dam than those people who will be most directly affected by it? And there is no question but that construction of the dam, which is only the first step in an overall plan for the Meramec River Basin, will profoundly change this part of the state. Presently, only initial work has begun on the dam under a $35 million appropriation.

Critics of the dam, who have become increasingly vocal in recent years, maintain that the cost — not only in dollars — will be too high. They cite environmental and ecological losses, the removal of farm land from production, and disruption of a way of life in the entire river valley area. Sound familiar?

On the other side are the arguments that the area needs the water recreation facilities, flood control protection and economic benefits that the dam will bring.

The best way to resolve this debate is to let the people decide what they want to do with their land through an advisory referendum.

What are we talking about, anyhow? In ordinary, common speech — the speech of those who live in the real world — desegregation is the process by which willful and deliberate school segregation is put to an end. In every significant case, the process is conducted according to court orders. There is nothing voluntary about it. A court finds that the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment has been violated, and the court proceeds to remedy the situation.

The authors of this report tell us, with a straight face, that "courts may not and do not require racial balance in an imposed desegregation plan." It is a flabbergasting misstatement of the law. The leading Charlotte-Mecklenburg case was predicted squarely upon the District Court desire to see a general 71-29 per cent ratio in the schools.

The report says that "courts have not forced students to ride buses." But for all practical purposes, that is precisely what the courts have done. Judges have ordered the purchase of buses; they have approved or disapproved bus routes; they have made racial-balance busing both explicit and implicit in their decrees.

And these coercive orders, manipulating little children because of the color of their skin, have aroused enormous resentment in communities with large minority populations. In such cities as Atlanta, "massive white flight" is a palpable fact of life. Boston's experience is identical. So is Richmond's. Nothing useful is gained by glossing over these things.

The kind of desegregation the country is concerned about, as in Boston, has made racial tensions worse. Desegregation has proved fearfully expensive in a dozen ways; it has not demonstrably benefited "everyone," and in many cities it has resulted in a *re*segregation more severe than before. The commission's report is an exercise in dreamy play-pretend; it is long on gentle fantasy; and it is woefully short on uncomfortable fact.

Art Buchwald Breaking into pop art world

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

Buchwald

One day the Canadian authorities refused to allow 80 wooden crates, which looked like cartons of Brillo soap pads, Kellogg's corn flakes and Mott's apple juice, to go through customs as works of art. The cartons, painted by American pop artist Andy Warhol, were not, said the Canadians, works of art but merchandise, and subject to $4,000 duty.

I think the Canadians are all wet. A few days after the incident in Canada, I went down to the supermarket to buy some groceries for my wife. On the way home I stopped in at an art gallery where they were holding a pop art exhibit. Unfortunately, the carton of groceries got heavy, and I left them on the floor.

Then, being so moved by what I saw, I left the gallery and went home.

"Where are the groceries?" my wife demanded.

"Oh, my gosh," I cried, "I left them at the art gallery."

"Well, you'd better get them if you want any supper tonight."

I rushed back to the gallery, but I was too late. The groceries had been awarded First prize in the show.

"We've been looking all over for you," the gallery owner said. "Why didn't you sign your work of art?"

"It's not a work of art. It's my dinner for tonight."

The gallery roared with appreciative laughter. "He's not only a great sculptor, but he has humor as well," a judge said.

"You can see that in his work," another judge added. "Notice how the bottle of Heinz catsup is leaning against the can of Campbell's pork and beans."

I'll never know how he was inspired to put the Ritz crackers on top of the can of Crisco," a lady said to her escort.

"It's pure genius," the escort replied. "Notice the way the Del Monte can of peaches is lying on its side. Even Warhol wouldn't have gone that far."

"I think the thing that really won the prize for him was the manner in which he crushed the Sara Lee cheesecake on the bottom of the box."

"It makes Picasso look sick."

"Look," I said, "I'm very grateful for all these honors, but my wife is waiting for this stuff and I have to get it home."

"Get it home?" the gallery owner said in amazement. "I've just sold it to that couple over there for $1,500."

"The groceries cost me only $18," I replied.

"It isn't the groceries. It's what you did with them. You have managed to put more meaning into a box of Rinsol than Rodin put into 'The Thinker.' Nobody will ever be able to look at a can of Franco-American spaghetti without thinking of you. You have said with this bag of groceries in one evening what Rembrandt tried to say in 1,000 paintings."

I blushed modestly and accepted his check. That night I took my wife out to dinner, and the next day I went back to the supermarket and bought another bag of groceries, much more expensive than the previous ones, which I immediately took to the gallery.

But the reviews were lousy. "Success has gone to his head," said Washington's leading art critics. "Where once he was able to produce simple jars of cat food and peanut butter in a wild, reckless, I-don't-give-a-damn-manner, he is now serving up elegant cans of mushrooms and mock turtle soup. The famous touch is gone and all that is left is a hodgepodge of tasteless groceries."

95 years ago

Very few of our citizens outside of those engaged on the railroads ever go out to the broad expanse of country lying around the new Superintendent's office and the Missouri Pacific shops. Consequently, very few of them know of the great changes in that part of town, or of the extensive improvements that the railroad company has made and is still making in that neighborhood.

Late converts

The generation of steam power into electricity that could be used for light, heat or running a motor began in 1880. But 1920 was the first year in which 50 per cent of U. S. city and town residences were wired for electricity. And it took until 1945 for half of America's farms to have access to this power source. The Conference Board notes.

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — President Ford's rosy portrait of the American economy may be based in part on inaccurate information from the Commerce Department.

But Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson isn't eager to correct the misleading figures. Disclosure of the apparent statistical misrepresentations would not be "in the best interest of the Bureau, the Department, or the Nation," wrote a Richardson aide.

What he means, we suspect, is that the disclosure would not be in the best interest of President Ford's election bid.

The controversy centers on one of the nation's leading economic indicators, the so-called "M-3 series" — the manufacturers' shipments, inventories and orders. The figures are supposed to reflect changes in business activity and serve as a basis for forecasting economic trends.

Census Bureau economist John Bullock discovered what he believes to be a "substantial understatement" in the M-3 "unfilled orders" figures more than four years ago. Only recently has the bureau quietly begun an internal review to determine whether the indicator is accurate.

The census statisticians have uncovered discrepancies in numerous components of the complex index. These cumulative errors may have thrown the indicator off by as much as 100 per cent over the past 14 years.

Merry-go-round

Economic indicator may be in error

Bullock contends that the Commerce Department is misleading the public by not admitting that the index is inaccurate. The potential error is so great, he notes, that it can easily lead to a "misreading of the cause and strength of the so-called economic recovery."

In fact, the department carefully downplayed some bad economic news in its public report of a related index. Generally, the department publishes charts each month showing the value of inventories. In May, June and July this year, the figure hit an all-time high — not a good economic sign. The graphs, which should have displayed the dramatic increases, were omitted twice and distorted once, according to insiders.

On orders of Chairman Pat Schroder, D-Colo., the House Census subcommittee is investigating Bullock's theory.

Footnote: Commerce spokesmen insisted that the missing graphs and President Ford's need for good economic publicity were coincidental. The M-3 review would be "a fairly long range process." The spokesmen asserted that the month-to-month change in the figures was accurate.

***

BIRDS OF A FEATHER: Party labels apparently don't mean much when rightwing politicians get together.

Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga., for example, is helping fellow John Birch Society member Dick Davis, who is running for Congress in Colorado as an independent. McDonald appeared at a testimonial dinner for Davis. It was, a McDonald spokesman said, "a personal friendship thing."

Democrat McDonald himself benefited from a political visit to his Georgia district by a Republican, Idaho's conservative Rep. Steve Symms. Symms characterized the trip as "kind of a mixed bag," since he also stumped for presidential candidate Ronald Reagan.

In any case, Symms said that he admired the Georgia Democrat and that "93 per cent of the time he votes with the Republicans ... Larry McDonald really ought to be a Republican."

Symms' trip has created problems for him with the GOP faithful. House Republican Leader John Rhodes asked him not to go to Georgia. Symms went anyway. This outraged the Georgia GOP chairman, who angrily attacked Symms for his lack of party loyalty.

"In my opinion," Symms snorted, "We (Republicans) should spend our money ... to defeat liberals" rather than concentrate on strictly party labels.

NO-SHOW JUNKET: As one of his last official acts, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, invited members of the House to a two-week NATO military tour of France, Italy, Greece and Turkey. Not a single congressman accepted.

As president of the North Atlantic Assembly, Hays recently sent a letter to the U.S. delegation inviting them to go and suggesting that "if you know of any other members who might be interested ... let me know."

The tour began Aug. 29, but even the luxury DC-9 provided by the Italian government wasn't enough to entice an American legislator. Their absence from this and two previous tours has led European NATO delegates to complain that America is no longer interested in NATO.

But the real reason they stayed home is a combination of the Hays-Ray scandal, the time it would take from campaigning and a steady diet of publicity on junketeering congressmen.

Mao 'great' as a killer

While the Liberal-Communist coalition busies itself at the task of extolling the "greatness" of the late Chairman Mao, I hope, but doubt, they'll give him due credit for being the "greatest" mass murderer in the entire history of mankind.

One of the advantages of being a free and independent American is that you don't have to engage in any phony glorification or mourning orgies every time some enemy of God and our Republic goes to hell.

Cards may be looking ahead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Not many National Football League teams are accused of looking ahead in their opening game of the season.

But that was one of the raps against the St. Louis Cardinals following their narrow 30-24 victory over the expansion Seattle Seahawks Sunday.

Defending champions of the National Football Conference Eastern Division the past two years, the Cardinals have been listed with Washington and Dallas as the cream of the division's 1976 crop.

Defensive end John Zook, a newcomer to the club, sensed that such a prediction may have been lodged too strongly in his teammates' minds during Sunday's opener at Seattle.

"On the Cardinals, I get the feeling a lot of guys are looking ahead to the contenders in our division," the former Atlanta Falcons veteran said.

"We can't be looking forward to Dallas and Washington. Any team can beat you in this league. We've got to play every Sunday. We just can't gear up for the strong ones."

Seattle wide receiver Sam McCullum said he sensed the same feeling in the play of cornerback Norm Thompson and other Cardinals.

"I think he took me a little lightly," said McCullum, who beat Thompson on two touchdown plays. "I think all of them took us a little lightly. But I suppose a guy like Thompson is used to playing in big games against big-name receivers. He was kind of lax."

Looking ahead wasn't the only reason the game was close, several Cardinals acknowledged. The Seahawks' performance certainly had a say in the outcome.

"I was afraid of this game," said quarterback Jim Hart. "I knew they were a better team than any of the expansion teams in recent years."

Cardinals' Coach Don Coryell said he was "extremely impressed" with the Seahawks, especially their passing game that produced 279 yards.

"They threw the ball much better than we anticipated," Coryell said. "And they caught it better."

Defensive tackle Charlie Davis said Seattle was well prepared.

"They did a helluva job scouting us," he said. "Every time they changed a set, they seemed to know how we would react."

Between now and the Cardinals home opener Sunday against the Green Bay Packers, linebacker Larry Stallings noted, "I think we shall have a long week of practice. We've just got to guard against this kind of thing. Still, a win is a win..."

Injuries force Haden into first-string job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The quarterback battle that sizzled in the Los Angeles Rams' training camp of the Los Angeles Rams between James Harris and Ron Jaworski has disintegrated and a Rhodes scholar must now pull the Rams out of an injury mess.

Jaworski, who challenged Harris for the No. 1 job this summer, suffered a fractured shoulder Sunday. With Harris out while a broken thumb heals, Pat Haden has been thrust into the role as the starter for Sunday's game against the Vikings.

Haden, who played for the Southern California Sun of the World Football League last year, is a 5-foot-11 perfectionist who is perfect as a passer in the National Football League.

Haden, a University of Southern California grad, threw his only NFL pass Sunday in a 30-14 victory over the Atlanta Falcons. It was a 47-yard touchdown bomb to Ron Jessie that went 50 yards in the air.

Haden played part of the WFL season last year before moving to England. There he completed one year of studies at Oxford. He has one more to go, but can choose when he attends school and won't have to leave at mid-year. Before leaving last year, Haden was the WFL's leading passer.

If Haden is injured, defensive back Steve Preece, who quarterbacked at Oregon State, and Rob Scribner, who was a second-string signal caller at UCLA, are candidates for the quarterback post.

O.J. tests his legs

O.J. Simpson, who held out until the last minute to be traded by the Buffalo Bills to a team on the West Coast, hauls in this pass from quarterback Joe Ferguson and rambles to the 11-yard line before being stopped. The play covered 43 yards, but it was overshadowed by the final scored, 30-21, posted by Miami.

Bulaich, Griese, Dolphins steal spotlight from O.J.

BUFFALO (AP) — The night belonged to Miami's Norm Bulaich and Bob Griese. Part of it belonged to Buffalo's O.J. Simpson.

It was Bulaich and Griese and the rest of the Miami gang who carried the Dolphins to a 30-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills Monday night in a National Football League season-opening game.

And it was Simpson, their great running back, playing only a bit more than 24 hours after rejoining the Bills, who electrified the crowd of 77,683 with his twisting and speed after catching a fourth-quarter pass for a 43-yard gain.

The game was costly for Buffalo. Fullback Jim Braxton, whose blocks helped Simpson gain much of his yardage the last five seasons, is finished for the year.

Braxton was cut down on the second play of the game — one nullified by a Miami offside — and suffered torn ligaments in his right knee. He was scheduled for surgery today.

Miami Coach Don Shula, who said Sunday that he felt Simpson would return to Buffalo, described Simpson's brief appearance thus:

"What a hell of a job he did for just suiting up yesterday. Saban waited all the way until the second play to send him in."

Buffalo Coach Lou Saban sent Simpson in as Braxton left the field.

Simpson's first carry was wiped out by a penalty. He carried on the next play and went for seven yards.

In all, Simpson toted the ball five times for 28 yards.

Bulaich, meanwhile, ripped apart the Buffalo defense with 107 yards on 19 carries.

"It was just great blocking by our offensive line," he explained. "It was just reading them and keying off their blocks that worked."

Griese completed 13 of 21 passes for 199 yards and one touchdown.

Simpson, who asked three months ago to be traded to a West Coast team for family and business reasons, said that with Braxton gone "I'll just have to get ready quicker."

Miami scored first with Benny Malone going over from the five in the first period. Buffalo deadlocked the game early in the second period as Joe Ferguson found John Holland with a 53-yard pass. Later in the game, the pair teamed for a 58-yard touchdown.

In between the Holland touchdowns, Don Nottingham tallied from one yard out. Then, Garo Yepremian booted the first of three field goals from the 25. The others came from 25 and 30 yards.

Nat Moore took a 30-yard scoring pass from Griese, and Buffalo closed out the scoring with Ferguson's 12-yard pass to Bob Chandler.

Buffalo's John Leypoldt had one field goal attempt blocked and two efforts went wide.

That upset Saban no end.

"Merv Krakau broke down on the first one and there was nothing wrong with the other two kicks, except for the man who kicked them," he said.

Then, talking about Braxton's injury, Saban said:

"It's funny. We spent the whole nine weeks getting Braxton ready to be the big man in our offense and he lasts two plays."

Big 8 coaches praise Missouri's upset win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "One game does not make a season," admitted Al Onofrio, cursed with the burden of reality.

"But we were very, very pleased to beat Southern Cal."

The 46-25 upset Onofrio's Missouri football team engineered over Southern Cal Saturday night delighted, but did not shock, Big Eight Conference coaches.

"Missouri might be the best team in the conference," Oklahoma's Barry Switzer said on the weekly telephone hookup of Big Eight coaches Monday morning.

"They're the only team that can run and throw equally well."

Onofrio admitted the victory, which zoomed the Tigers from nowhere to No. 6 in the national rankings, did not surprise him. But the score did.

"The actual score of games is hard to anticipate," he said. "But sometimes games turn out that way."

The Tiger offense seized the momentum and kept it, with Steve Pisarkiewicz flashing his familiar passing wizardry and tailback Curtis Brown rolling up 245 yards total offense.

"Overall, I was pleased with our defense," Onofrio said. "They accepted the challenge when we fumbled, and kept them from getting a touchdown. But we still have some room for improvement."

The gait at Columbia was contrasted sharply by the mood in Lincoln, Neb., after the Cornhuskers were held to a 6-6 tie at Louisiana State. Speaking at mid-morning, coach Tom Osborne knew his team's No. 1 ranking would disappear when this week's ballot were counted.

"Ratings are more or less irrelevant," he said. "At the end of the year they have some relevance, but not too much."

"I'm sure LSU probably considered it a victory," Osborne added. "The fans' reaction isn't in yet."

The Cornhuskers tumbled to eighth place in the rankings and Osborne vehemently denied that he might try to pile up points on this week's foe, Indiana.

"Absolutely not," he said. "If we have a lead and a chance to play some other players to get some experience, we'll do it."

Oklahoma, after dismissing Vanderbilt, 24-3, climbed one notch in the rankings to fourth, but Switzer was displeased with what he called a "sluggish" and "sloppy" offensive performance.

"I tried to tell people we would probably be like this," he said. "That's what happens when you play inexperienced people at skilled positions on offense."

This week the Sooners face California and the Bears' great passer, Joe Roth.

"We're going to have to get to the guy," Switzer said. "Our seven front people have got to play well."

Colorado's 24-7 loss to Texas Tech Saturday made the Buffaloes the only loser among Big Eight teams and Coach Bill Mallory hinted there could be some personnel changes on offense.

"It was just a poor performance by everybody," Mallory said of his offense. "Our defense played well enough to win," he added, "but our offense..."

"I still believe we can be a good football team," he added. "But our offense must get better." Looking ahead to Saturday's contest with Washington Mallory said, "Don't be surprised if there's a new face or two in there."

Jim Stanley, Oklahoma State boss, admitted the Cowboys did not match their potential in staging a comeback behind 33-21 triumph over Tulsa.

"But coming back like that is a good sign of character," he said. Saturday's opponent, Arkansas at Little Rock, looks even tougher now with the loss of reserve quarterback-defensive back Scott Burk, who suffered a wrist injury against Tulsa.

"He might come back and play defensive back," Stanley said. "But that's doubtful, too."

Iowa State's 58-14 drubbing of Drake, before the largest season-opening crowd in Cyclones' history, left coach Earle Bruce full of smiles.

"It's always exciting when you can play 55 players in the opening game," he said. "That's also good for morale." With little time to savor the victory, Bruce was already preparing this week's clash against Air Force.

"Air Force will be a much better test," Bruce said. "They run and pass real well. They're kind of lean and mean."

Kansas State boss Ellis Rainsberger, after watching his Wildcats upset Brigham Young, 13-3, was guardedly optimistic.

"It was apparent that our youngsters had their hands full," he said. "BYU virtually controlled the line of scrimmage."

He said quarterback Billy Swanson, a transfer from Utah State, "showed good quickness and leadership and will improve."

Bud Moore of Kansas, notching his second straight victory of the year with a 35-16 decision over Washington State, is worried about offensive and defensive inconsistencies.

"Defensively, we didn't rush the passer very well and I was disappointed with that," he said. "Some individuals played pretty well, but we didn't put it together, particularly in the second half."

S-C coach tight-lipped following loss

By RON HIGGINS
Staff SportsWriter

The Smith-Cotton Tiger football squad was back at practice Monday licking its wounds suffered Friday night in a 29-12 setback at the hands of the Marshall Owls on the latter's home field.

Tiger head coach Bob Fletcher was hesitant to say much on the loss except that "they outthrew us." When asked about the play of Marshall's Rodney Stephenson, a 6-2, 183-pound running back who ate up 185 yards rushing on 23 carries and caught a pass for 24 yards against the Tigers Friday, Coach Fletcher was still at a loss for words saying, "He did a good job—you saw what he did." In Marshall's season opener against Blue Springs a week prior to meeting Sedalia, Stephenson was credited with 77 yards.

Now Smith-Cotton must prepare for their next game with Jefferson City Helias Friday night in Jennie Jaynes Stadium. While the Tigers were taking their beating in Marshall Friday night, Helias squeaked past Union 12-10.

Fletcher commented that there were some injuries in the Marshall game, but didn't want to name who was injured because they have to practice first to see how severe the injuries are and said it was not smart to let out that type of information prior to another game saying, "It's a sign of bad coaching—a coach just doesn't want to talk much."

Fletcher explained the reason Smith-Cotton didn't pass much (12 attempts—only 2 completions) was that for the most part they were in bad field position and an interception would give the other team excellent field position.

The Tigers did mount 113 yards passing and rushing combined with 75 of them on the ground in 29 attempts. A couple of outstanding defensive plays by Dennis Yokeley, who knocked down two passes that could have resulted in Tiger touchdowns, and ironmen Steve Heinzler (6-2, 225) and Steve Fletcher (6-1, 200) on the defensive line limited the Smith-Cotton yardage far below par.

Coach Fletcher will spend this week working the Tigers in practice and trying to establish a better attitude among the squad.

The Tigers started this week on a more positive note winning a 12-0 junior variety season opener against Marshall Monday afternoon in Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Sailing team clinches crown

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — David Curtis and Bob Danforth of Marblehead, Mass., have clinched the Etchells 22 world sailing championship by winning the sixth and final race of the series on Rhode Island Sound.

Curtis and Danforth, co-owner of their boat Big Red, had taken turns sailing it in the series. It was Curtis' turn Monday and he dominated the race from start to finish, winning by two minutes over Tom Crotty of Freeport, Maine.

The final standings showed Curtis and Danforth with the low score of 10 points. Randy Bartholomew of Port Washington, N.Y., last year's champion, finished second with 32.7 points.

Bruce Ritchie, the Australian champion, was third with 37.4 points.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Mike Lawrence has a really excellent discussion of the suit-preference signal in "Judgment at Bridge." His first example is a good introduction. West opens his singleton heart against South's four-spade contract. East takes his ace and leads back the suit for West to ruff. If West proceeds to lead a diamond, East will take his ace and lead another heart. West will ruff and North and South will have justifiable complaints about bad luck. The suit-preference signal makes it possible for East to tell West what to lead back. He leads his highest heart — the 10 spot. This calls for the higher of the two suits that West can lead. If East wanted a club return he would have led his lowest heart — the deuce. If West didn't care what was returned he would lead some sort of middle heart like the five.

This particular example shows this convention at its simplest and best. East doesn't want to do anything except to tell his partner which suit to lead and there is no way to confuse his partner.

Ask the Jacobys

We have received numerous questions about what happens when a card is found on the floor during the play of a hand.

There is a simple answer to this one. Unless the players are sure that the card was not actually dealt to the player who is short a card, it is replaced in his hand and play continues except that he is responsible for any revokes he may have made. If the players are sure it was not dealt and dropped, it is a misdeal.

Ann Landers

Maturity guide given again

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you printed a definition of maturity. It had some excellent guidelines, not only for judging others but for keeping tabs on ourselves. I intended to cut the column out but somehow I forgot and the newspaper was gone when I went to look for it. I've regretted it ever since. Will you please print it again? My son's birthday is September 14th and it would be the best birthday gift in the world. Thanks, Ann. — Emma F. In Akron

Dear Emma: Here it is, with my best wishes to your son for a happy birthday.

WHAT IS MATURITY? Maturity is the ability to control anger and settle differences without violence or destruction.

Maturity is patience. It is the willingness to pass up immediate pleasure in favor of the long-term gain.

Maturity is perseverance, the ability to sweat out a project or a situation in spite of heavy opposition and discouraging setbacks.

Maturity is the capacity to face unpleasantness and frustration, discomfort and defeat, without complaint or collapse.

Maturity is humility. It is being big enough to say, "I was wrong." And, when right, the mature person need not experience the satisfaction of saying, "I told you so."

Maturity is the ability to make a decision and stand by it. The immature spend their lives exploring endless possibilities; then they do nothing.

Maturity means dependability, keeping one's word, coming through in a crisis. The immature are masters of the alibi. They are the confused and the disorganized. Their lives are a maze of broken promises, former friends, unfinished business and good intentions that somehow never materialize.

Maturity is the art of living in peace with that which we cannot change, the courage to change that which SHOULD be changed — and the wisdom to know the difference.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a letter to "Want To Be Neighborly."

Dear "Neighborly": I hate you! You have stolen many of my precious hours and time is irreplaceable. When I see your face at my door, I feel like hiding in the closet until you leave.

I manage to pretend I'm glad to see you, but I deserve an Academy Award for my acting. I have other friends I'd rather be with if only I had the time and energy.

You've dropped in dozens of times — unexpectedly, and prevented me from baking, sewing, marketing, phoning my family, or sneaking in a much-needed nap. To put it bluntly, you are a royal pain in the neck, Madam.

I wish I had the nerve to put a sign on my front door like one man did who wrote to Ann Landers. It read, "If you were not invited you are not expected and you are not welcome." I'm not signing my name, but I hope you recognize both me and yourself. — Can't Stand Drop-ins

Dear Can't: Any woman who prefaces a message to her neighbor with "I hate you" should have that sign made at once. I hope you will do so as a preventive measure against ulcers, migraines, or high blood pressure — whichever might come first.

Some sound advice: diet and exercise

Dear Dr. Lamb — About three years ago I went to a diet workshop and lost 21 pounds, from 147 to 126 pounds. Two years ago I had my gall bladder removed and I lost another five pounds which brought me down to 121 pounds.

I felt terrific. In two years I've gained about 10 pounds and I'm very uncomfortable. I've tried to lose it but, I've been unsuccessful. Could you please give me some advice as to what I should eat to lose this excess weight?

By the way I'm a 36-year-old female and 5 feet 2. Please try to answer soon before I gain another 10 pounds.

Dear Reader — Your story is familiar. Most people who go on a special weight losing diet regain most the weight because they really didn't modify their living habits.

I don't like for people to eat fewer than 2000 calories a day unless they do so under a doctor's supervision. You can be on a grossly inadequate diet if you try it alone.

The foods you should avoid are those that provide essentially calories and little else and lots of calories with a minimal amount of bulk. These foods are the fats on meats, in cooking oils and elsewhere. The other such foods are the concentrated sweets and starches. You can eat lots of vegetables, a reasonable amount of raw fruits, a limited amount of bread, fortified skim milk and lean meats, fish and chicken.

Meanwhile also start increasing your physical activity. A daily walk will help. Swim and do other activities if you can.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I just found out I have a thyroid nodule. I am anxious to know if it ever leads to an operation.

Dear Reader — It depends a great deal on what you mean. If you just have some general enlargement of your thyroid or if you have a simple goiter it may not require surgery. But if you really mean an isolated distinct nodule in the thyroid gland then there is only one way a doctor can be sure what it is. That is to look at part of it under a microscope.

That is sometimes done with a needle biopsy but more often it is done by surgical removal of the nodule and nearby thyroid tissue. In that case the person may need to take a thyroid replacement thereafter.

The doctor can tell a lot about a thyroid nodule using modern radioisotope techniques, but none of these provide absolute information regarding whether the nodule is benign or malignant. The needle biopsy may miss the important area that shows changes. The end result then is that most nodules must be looked at under the microscope.

You may be interested to know that about one in 50 adults develop a thyroid nodule. (NEA)

At wit's end

Pity the father

By ERMA BOMBECK

During a pregnancy, it is not uncommon for an expectee to break out with hives, lose sleep, or become morose and not want to talk about it. Some even have stomach cramps.

And those are just the men, according to British authress Betty Parsons.

She has just written a book for expectant fathers describing their turmoil and anxiety.

And if that isn't enough to choke you up, a laborite member of Parliament is introducing a bill that would give a man three days holiday with pay when his wife has a baby. (That's like tipping the Boston Strangler for making a house call.)

To quote, "It is inhuman and monstrous that men should be deprived of this vital family entitlement. It will enable a man to be present to keep his wife company while she is in labor."

I'd like to see this "sharing" go a step farther. When does a husband get custody of the baby for the first nine months preceding birth?

I'm not your neighborhood sadist or anything, but I'd sure like to cut down on some of the dumb questions husbands seem to spew out. These are my favorites:

Upon being told you are pregnant, a husband will invariably ask, "Are you sure?" (If Rona Barrett said it, you'd believe it!)

"Are you really nauseated?" is another favorite. (Just because I am hanging out of the no-draft, clutching the radio antenna and praying for death... is that what you think?)

"Are you comfortable?" (This, in your 11th month on an elevator when a man has just set a pipe on your stomach and announced, "We seem to be stuck between floors. Someone has just tilted us over capacity.")

I know men should be more involved in birth, but I personally liked it better when they lived in ignorance. When they thought I was performing a miracle that only I could do. That I had to go into maternity clothes at two weeks and sit in soft chairs and not carry anything heavier than a dish of ice cream. And that after birth, I had to stay in bed 30 days to get my strength back.

Men won't stop with a three-day maternity leave. First, they won't be able to fit into anything they wore before the baby... then they'll have to get away for a few days... and the post-natal depression could last as long as 15 years.

District governor lauds Rotary Club

"As a member of the Rotary Club of Sedalia, you belong to one of the greatest Rotary clubs in District 607," Howard Fillmer, district governor from Marshfield, Mo., told his audience of Rotarians and Rotaryans on Monday night at the Sedalia Club.

"The Sedalia club has led in club attendance over all clubs in the district for July and August; you sent the largest delegation to the district assembly in Warrensburg in July, and your program of community project work is known throughout the district and is outstanding," he continued.

He noted that as one individual it is difficult to bring about change and achieve worthy goals, but as members of a working club, which in turn is a part of world-wide Rotary International, it is possible to bring about better world understanding between people and nations, to work for community betterment project, to achieve higher ethical standards in business and professions, and to enjoy and broaden one's interest through club fellowship.

Fillmer complimented Larry McRoy, club president, and other officers and board members for their presentation of the club's program for the current Rotary year at an earlier morning meeting.

In other club activity, Bruce McCully introduced James Mathewson as a new club member. Everett Wood asked that all travelogue tickets be sold by next Monday and a full report be made at that time. He noted that the first of the film series would be shown in Smith-Cotton High School auditorium on Tuesday evening, September 21, when Ric Dougherty will narrate his film, "Sweden — A Midsummer Dream."

George Berenyi invited members to attend one of the city planning work meetings being held this week at the Municipal Building to acquaint Sedalians with the new 25-year city plan.

McRoy announced an Italian six-man Rotary study group will be in District 607 from April 23 through June 4 next year and will visit in Sedalia for several days. He appointed Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher as chairman of the committee to handle housing and arrangements for the group.

ing and arrangements for the group.

Guests in addition to Mrs. Mary Fillmer, wife of the Rotary district governor, and eighteen Rotaryans were Rotarians Don Williams, Warrensburg, Keith Kreissler, Clinton; Elmer Evers, Jefferson City; Walter Stoll, Columbia, with Paul Jensen; Jack Wheatkraft, Kansas City, with Bob Wolfe; Darrell Shilton, Shawnee Mission, Kan., with Ray Paul; and James Harlan, Boston, Mass., with his father, J.A. Harlan. They were introduced by Veri Schnepf.

Can't someone do something to slow the rise in health care costs?

Yes. You can.

The cost of health care is increasing.

Inflation and malpractice insurance are partly responsible. So are technological advances. Today's diagnostic and treatment methods save many lives, but they also require expensive equipment run by highly skilled people.

Americans enjoy the highest quality health care in the world, and we want to keep it that way. But we also want to do it at a cost we can afford.

That means we must spend every health care dollar carefully, so it not only buys a medical service that is needed, but buys it as economically as possible.

The truth is, through some misuse of our health facilities, we, as individuals, are partly responsible for the skyrocketing cost of health care.

For example, diagnostic tests, treatment services, even minor surgery can often be done safely on an outpatient basis. Yet many people insist on a hospital stay.

When hospital bed patient care is needed, some people pressure their doctors into an extra day's stay, forgetting that a single day of hospital care averages $160 in the Kansas City area.

We forget, because hospital bills and many other health care expenses are not paid for by us at the time care is received.

Instead, we pay for those expenses through Blue Cross and Blue Shield dues, insurance company premiums, or in taxes that support government programs such as Medicare.

When unnecessary health care expenses occur, these dues and premiums and taxes have to go up to cover them. Here's how you can help slow the rise in health care costs.

1. Use outpatient facilities — the doctor's office or the hospital outpatient department — whenever possible. Encourage people you know to do the same.
2. When you require inpatient hospital care, go home as quickly as your doctor says you can.
3. Understand your health care coverage. The benefits, limitations and exclusions are helpful guideposts to the wisest use of health care facilities.
4. Don't support unnecessary construction of health care facilities in your community. Every new hospital bed costs from $40,000 to $60,000 to build and equip whether it's ever used or not.

5. Practice good health habits. Preventing illness and accidents is the best way to keep health care costs down!

As the quality of health care continues to improve, costs will rise. But you can help slow the pace of that rise by working with doctors, hospitals and the Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan to eliminate misuse of health care resources.

Together, we can help keep health care costs down.

Episcopal priest admits he's 'gay'

CHICAGO (AP) — Activist Episcopal priest Malcolm Boyd has publicly declared himself a homosexual. Father Boyd, 53, was quoted in the Chicago Sun-Times as saying: "I'm gay. In saying this, I feel secure, unthreatened and happy. It's something I felt I needed to do."

The minister and popular author of the 1960s, whose book of prayers titled "Are You Running with Me, Jesus?" gained him national attention, defended homosexual rights in a speech last month before the national convention of Integrity, an organization of Episcopalians who support gay causes.

Mayor will pay governor's fine

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Mayor John Shaw says he'll pay the 50-cent parking ticket his police issued to Gov. Meldrim Thomson.

Thomson's campaign secretary, Jay McDuffee, said Monday that Shaw told Thomson he would also write him a letter of apology. McDuffee did not deny the ticket was properly issued.

Rochester police wrote the ticket last week when businessman Richard Fabian filed a complaint because the governor's driver, a state trooper, did not permit a coin in the parking meter.

Man arrested in torture-slating

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 20-year-old youth faces a charge of first-degree murder in the torture-slating Monday of a 15-year-old girl, police said.

Tony Campbell was arrested after an informant's tip and was charged in a warrant issued by the circuit attorney's office.

The body of Patricia Malone was discovered in the basement of a vacant north St. Louis house, officers said. The girl's body was slashed and bludgeoned and was found slumped in a chair.

Most Dutch feel not all was told

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP)—Sixty-two per cent of Dutch citizens believe an inquiry failed to reveal fully the facts on Prince Bernhard's involvement in the Lockheed bribe scandal.

An opinion poll, conducted by the Dutch Institute for Public Research (NIPD) for Elseviers magazine, showed that only 27 per cent of the respondents thought everything had been revealed.

Nine hundred persons were polled four days after the Aug. 26 publication of the report on Bernhard's dealings with Lockheed.

An independent three-man tribunal appointed by the government spent six months probing allegations that Queen Juliana's husband took $1.1 million dollars in Lockheed payouts. The probe failed to establish that the 65-year-old prince received such funds but found enough embarrassing evidence to force his resignation from public office.

Sinatra won't sing if newspaper shows

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Entertainer Frank Sinatra will not reverse a decision barring representatives of the Reno Evening Gazette and Nevada State Journal from his supper club shows here.

Mark Curtis, public relations chief for Harrah's, said Monday that Sinatra's stand is probably irreversible.

"During this engagement I am sure that the directive is a standing thing," Curtis said.

Sinatra, annoyed by a Friday newspaper story outlining his life and disputes with Nevada gaming authorities, refused to perform if anyone from the jointly owned newspapers was in attendance.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The City of Pilot Grove, Missouri will receive sealed bids for the construction of a new building located in Pilot Grove, Missouri, until 2:00 p.m. (Prevailing Central Time) on 28th of September, 1976 at City Hall, Pilot Grove, Missouri 65276 at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Contract documents, including drawings and technical specifications, are on file at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Pilot Grove, Missouri.

Copies of the contract documents may be obtained by depositing $25.00 with the City for each set of documents so obtained. Each such deposit will be refunded if the drawings and contract documents are returned in good condition within 15 days after bid opening.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of the City of Pilot Grove, Missouri, negotiable U.S. Government Bonds (at par value), or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder, and an acceptable surety, in an amount equal to 5 per cent of the total of bid shall be submitted with each bid.

An Equal Employment Opportunity Reporting listing the number and type of persons employed in each category and the contractor's signed Equal Opportunity Employment Policy shall be submitted with each bid.

Bidders must agree to comply with Prevailing Wage Rate Provisions and other Statutory Regulations as referred to in the specifications.

The City of Pilot Grove, Missouri, reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any formalities in the bidding.

The City of Pilot Grove hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award. Bids may be held by the City of Pilot Grove, Missouri for a period not to exceed 30 days from the date of opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

CITY OF PILOT GROVE By Mrs. Edna Shay, City Clerk 2X—9-7, 14.
